UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA SANTA CRUZ
HIGH ENERGY/PARTICLE ASTROPHYSICS
Assistant Professor

The Physics Department of the University of California, Santa Cruz, invites applications for a tenure track position in High Energy Astrophysics or Particle Astrophysics. The successful candidate will be expected to develop a strong research program, supervise graduate students, teach at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and interact productively with other science faculty members. The successful candidate will have available the excellent technical infrastructure already present in the Santa Cruz Institute for Particle Physics (SCIPP), as well as UCSC’s excellent program in Astronomy and Astrophysics. UCSC faculty are presently involved in several particle astrophysics programs, including GLAST, Milagro, RHESSI, STACEE, and VERITAS, as well as theoretical efforts in astrophysics theory, gravitational physics, and particle cosmology. We are seeking applicants whose experimental or theoretical interests would enhance or complement these programs. The campus is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through their research, teaching and/or service.
